Provenance and Eligibility

PLEASE ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS FIRST. They will help you ensure the artwork you wish to purchase is eligible for this grant program.

The artwork conforms to the Indian Arts and Crafts Act of 1990.

The materials used in the artwork conform to current federal and state regulations concerning prohibited paleontological and archaeological materials.

The artwork reflects the artist's heritage and is not an appropriation of another cultural tradition.

Could the artwork be considered sacred art?

If your artwork reflects a heritage other than the artist's own heritage or may be considered sacred art, please do one or more of the following in this space:

- Address why it is an appropriate use of another cultural tradition, and not cultural appropriation.
- Address why this particular sacred artwork is an appropriate artwork to include in your collection and/or display publicly.

This work was made by an artist who is currently living in Alaska.

This work was made by an artist who is alive today or died within the past calendar year.

If the museum is seeking to purchase artwork from a museum volunteer or an artist related to a board member, the museum is required to have an acquisition process that includes community members (which is best practice) to mitigate conflict of interest in the selection process. In the case of purchasing art from an artist related to a board member, the museum must also have a process in place in which the board member recuses themselves from all decisions related to the purchase, and the museum must attach their conflict of interest policy.

If you are seeking to purchase artwork from a museum volunteer or an artist related to a board member, please explain how, in your artist and artwork selection process, your organization ensured the above relationships—volunteer or the artist's relation to a board member—did not influence the museum's decision.

If your artist is related to a board member, please upload your conflict of interest policy here.
